Foreword

Our years at school may be compared to the building of a modern business structure; each class, each individual must either add a stone or tear one down.

A powerful temple unto time is unseen by the heedless footsteps of a passing world yet part of us forever; for our minds are its organizers; our tasks, joys, and disappointments are the building materials; our achievements are its wares. Now, as Seniors who must leave this work and enter a new arch of life, we proudly present to you this record, our Cantoria.

Dedication

We dedicate our "Cantoria" to you, Miss Granger, for your contribution to St. Nicholas. Modern living is the theme of our book, and in this theme are expressed the symmetry and distinction of design toward which you have worked. The genuine interest and friendship that you extend to everyone have made the English room one of the pleasantest corners in which to enjoy our spare moments.

Miss Fanny C. Steele
Headmistress

If our graduates reflect the poise, graciousness, and understanding of Miss Steele, they will represent the ideals she has striven to impart. Always endeavoring to assist us in making a success of every enterprise, she is the very heart of St. Nicholas.

Seniors Plan to Build the Future

For the Seniors, this is not the end, but only the beginning. Looking backwards, the busy year was started off by the finding of the well-hidden Senior Key, which gave the finders their special privileges. The Senior Tea, honoring the faculty and its new members, was held early in the fall. The main stage production of the year was the Senior Play, "Come Over to Our House," a great satisfaction to the Seniors who worked so hard on it. The Christmas tableaux, beautiful in its presentation, was enjoyed by all. Another highlight of the year was the mixer with its 1920 theme. In March a spring Fashion Show was put on by the Seniors. Then came Baccalaureate and Commencement. All too soon the year with its friendships and experiences as well as studies and examinations was over. Looking forward, in the years to come as they find their places in the world, the Seniors will remember Saint Nicholas and the times shared with teachers and friends.

GLEN BORGENDALE

Whether it's "Carrie" in the Senior Play, a class meeting, or the basketball floor, it's "Glen on the spot!" with poise and capability to meet it. Famous for her skiing, knitting, and leadership, Glen has been at the helm steering us through all kinds of turbulent waters.

MARGARET BACKSCHIES

Where would the Seniors be without "Maggie?" Talented and creative, her original ideas and undying efforts have been the driving force in the production of our play, skits, and mixers. Maggie's profound depth and strength of character have been a rare gift to all who have known her. A true actress at heart, she'll soon have us saying, "I knew her when - - -!"

VIRGINIA BELL

No day is complete without the merry laughter of Virginia ringing throughout the halls. Whenever there is a job to be done, we know that in her capable hands it will always be successful. As Business Manager of the Senior Play and Activities Editor of the Cantoria—efficiency has been the keyword.

ANNABELL BROWN

Since her arrival at St. Nick in the 7th grade "Ann" has been very active in class functions. Her ambition and willingness shown as Associate Business Editor of the Cantoria have made her an invaluable member of the class.

PATTI COULLITON

No one could do without our effervescent Patti. Her buoyant personality has lifted our spirits when we've been down in the dumps. Friends of St. Nicholas got a glimpse of her warmth and sincerity when she gave the welcome speech to the Christmas Pageant. Although she entered in her Junior year, she has been honored as Senior Class Captain and has held various other offices.

DEBORAH DAVIDSON

People with red hair have bad tempers? Don't you believe it, for "Debbie's" outstanding asset is her wonderful disposition. There is something vital and alive about Debbie which not only distinguished her in the Senior Play, but has made her a valuable member of our class in her two years at St. Nick.

ANTONIA DICKINSON

Cute, petite "Toni" is a combination of talent and leadership. She has delighted us all with her piano playing and has been a vital part of the Glee Club, of which she was President this year. As the scatter-brained Evie she played a very successful part in the Senior Play. Toni has shown her ability in leadership by holding class and Student Government offices. We will always remember her for her cheery greetings and ever-ready smile.

PRISCILLA EDMUNDS

"Sid" is synonymous with a stimulating dash of humor, a capacity for organization, and a keen wit. She's first to pioneer any new project, last to walk when she can stride. Her athletic ability and sense of fair play have brought her such laurels as "S" girl and Athletic Association President. Never will we forget that realistic portrayal of Butch.

RITA GIESE

Rita's zealous work as editor of this year's Cantoria brings her much well-deserved applause. She's an efficient and understanding leader who has given much of her time and skill to our class and to St. Nicholas. As 1951's only twelve-year girl, she has maintained an enviable record. Everything she does is done in that "Giese style", which is synonymous with "done right."

JERRIE HEATHCOTE

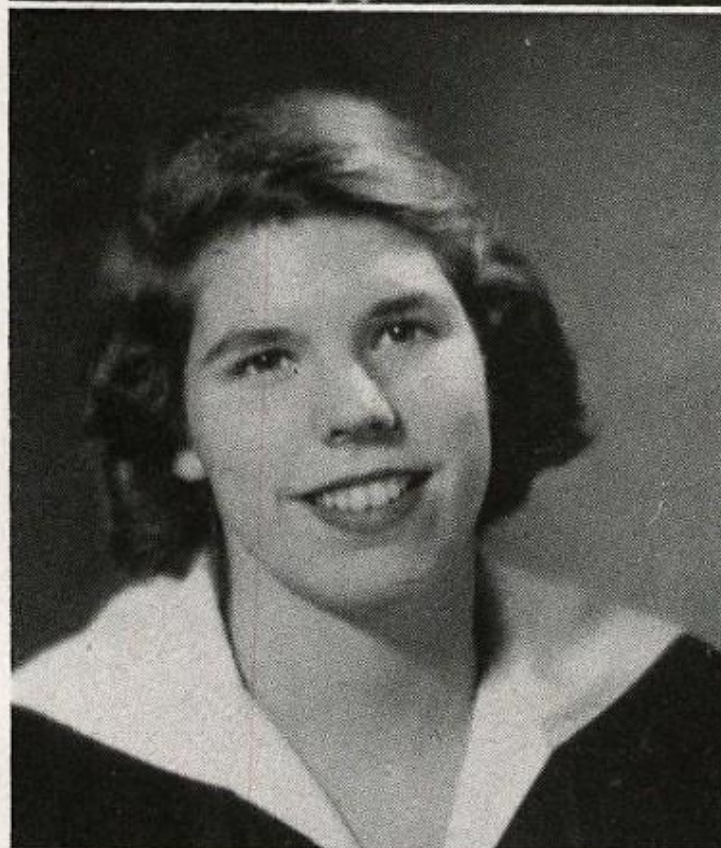

She is the girl who always manages to keep the Seniors in the money. As class treasurer and business editor of the Cantoria, efficiency plus was the by-word. Her skill and adeptness have distinguished her on our teams. Who will ever forget Jerrie's spontaneous sense of humor which always seems to bubble out in any situation?

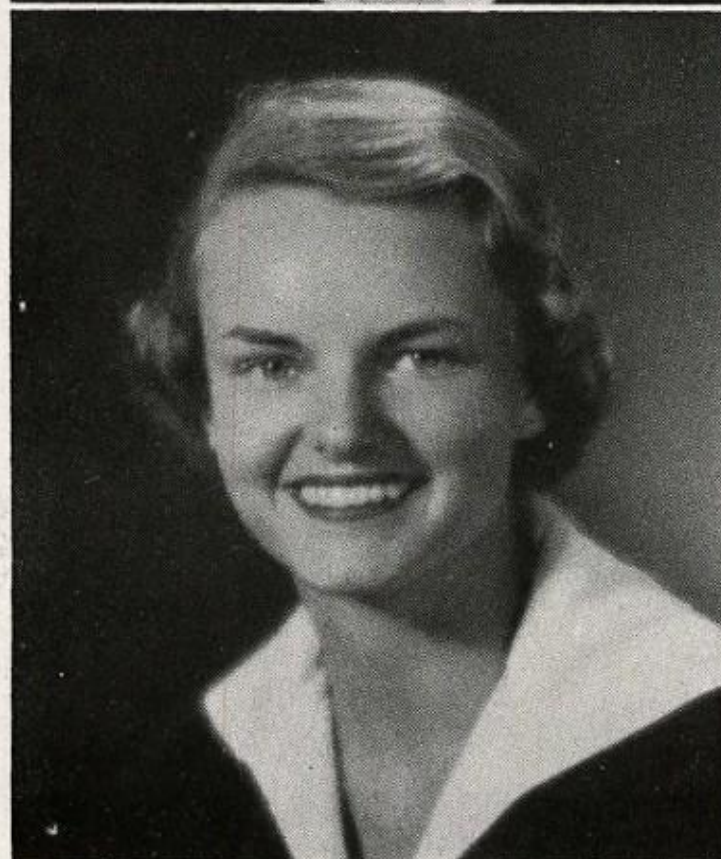

CAROLINE HOWE

Caroline's numerous abilities promise to assure her a busy and interesting future. Her accomplishments and her aptitude for all phases of art from posters to stage setting have made her indispensable to our class. "Versatile" clearly defines Caroline, and her frankness, friendship and reliability guarantee her good friends wherever she goes.

SALLY INGRAHAM

Left wing and live wire of all athletics, Sally with her beautiful auburn hair and twinkling brown eyes is a vital part of our class. Her vivaciousness is only one of the qualities which have made her our able basketball manager and treasurer of the Athletic Association. No doubt the years to come will bring headlines featuring Sally as champion of the ski slopes.

JOANNE IVES

Found: An article composed of vast amounts of vivacity and enthusiasm, a ready wit, blond hair and . . . Now we recognize it. 'Tis none other than our own "Jesse." Her work as Lambda President has proved to be conscientious and sincere. We're sure that her cheery "good morning" must be tuned from her personality, warm and vibrant.

BARBARA JOHNSON

A soft-spoken way and pleasant smile—that's "Bobbie." We will always cherish her role as "the grandmother who understands her children" in the Senior Play. She has taken an active part in school activities and her contributions of dramatic talent and tireless work on our skits have enriched the class greatly.

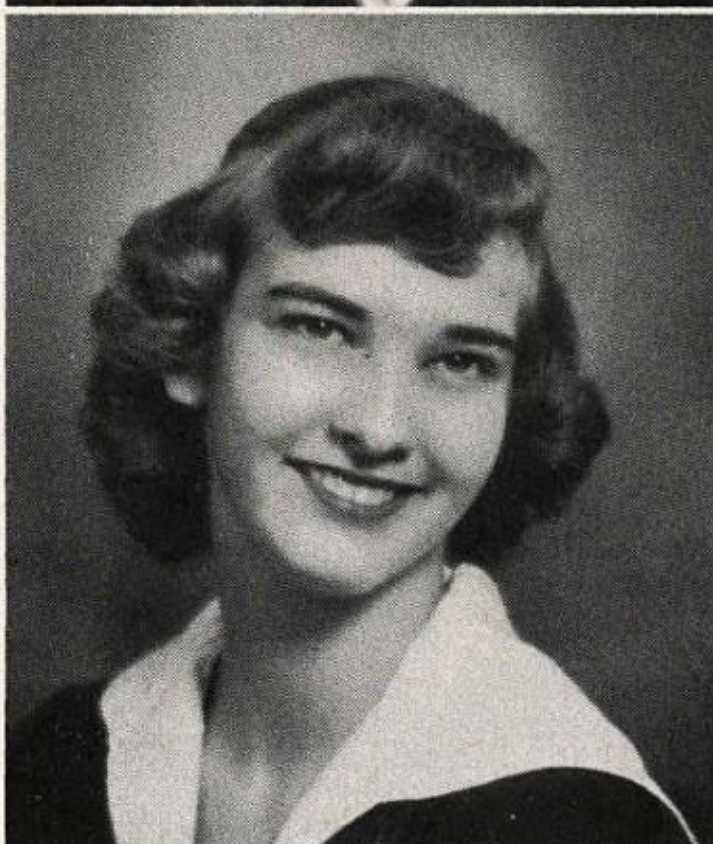

CAROL JONES

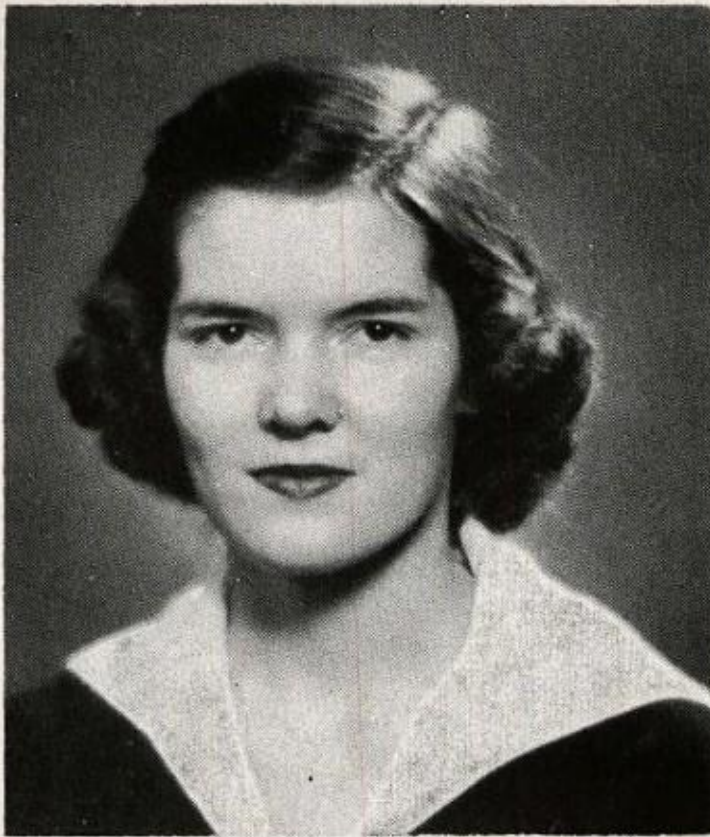

Carol is the girl who is always "on the ball" and manages to keep it rolling. In the character of Steve Reynolds, she provided a great deal of the romantic interest in the Senior Play. Carol is known for her corny cracks and crazy schemes, which send us all into gales of mirth. "She laughs and the world laughs with her."

JOAN LYDGATE

Fun loving, talented Joan came to St. Nick in her Junior year. Since then her bright eyes and sparkling smile have made her everyone's friend. She has given much time and thought to such school activities as the Senior Play, mixer, basketball, volleyball, and baseball. We'll always remember Joan's wonderful sense of humor and showmanship.

JOHANNA MINARD

"Joey's" dimples and heart warming smile have cheered our days since she first entered St. Nick in the seventh grade. She has participated in all sports, held several class offices, and proved her artistic ability as an art editor of the Cantoria. We will remember her as a loyal and willing member of our class.

SHIRLEY OVERBY

Without Shirley's sparkling eyes and beautiful blush our class would not be complete. Thanks to Shirley—each of you has received your dessert, for she was the efficient organizer of the Senior dining room corps. Turning from the practical world, she easily slipped into the role of a beautiful and inspiring Mary in the Christmas Pageant. Quiet enthusiasm coupled with genuine friendliness creates a picture of Shirley.

BLANCHE PATTERSON

Blanche is the one who has those "mad about him, sad about him, how can I live without him" blues. She has entertained us all with her gay parties, rollicking stories, and practical jokes. Her hilarious antics and wit have proved a lively and amusing addition to the class.

SALLY SCRIPPS

A scatterbrained bundle of enthusiasm, Sally provides the unpredictable quotient in our formula. She has the unique ability of dashing off in all directions at once. The class whole-heartedly nominates her as our female version of "tall, dark, and handsome."

JEANNE SMILEY

Jeanne, with the beautiful blonde hair and complexion has won her own special place in our hearts. Her gracious, warm personality, her acting ability in the Senior Play, her limitless work on the Jinks and Cantoria, topped with enthusiasm and loyalty to her class have made her a friend and example to all.

GEORGIE STEWART

Entertaining stories, fun, laughter—these qualities add up to Georgie. At times light hearted, at other times serious, she never has a moment to be bored or listless. Her classmates wish for her is that this spirit of gaiety may always be with her.

BETSY STONE

Betsy is our dark-haired chatterbox. She entertains us for hours with jokes, and her contortions are out of this world. Every year has seen Betsy represent her class as an officer. Always on the go, she attracts a large following with quips and pranks.

GAIL THOMPSON

Gail will always manage to tell just one more of those "pointless" jokes to anyone who will wait long enough for her to stop laughing at the thought of it. That is, she will if she hasn't a saddle, or golf club under her arm. Seriously, though, Gail's undying energy and infallible solutions to all our problems have made her as indispensable as she is enchanting. A girl with style, charm, and drive—that's our Gail.

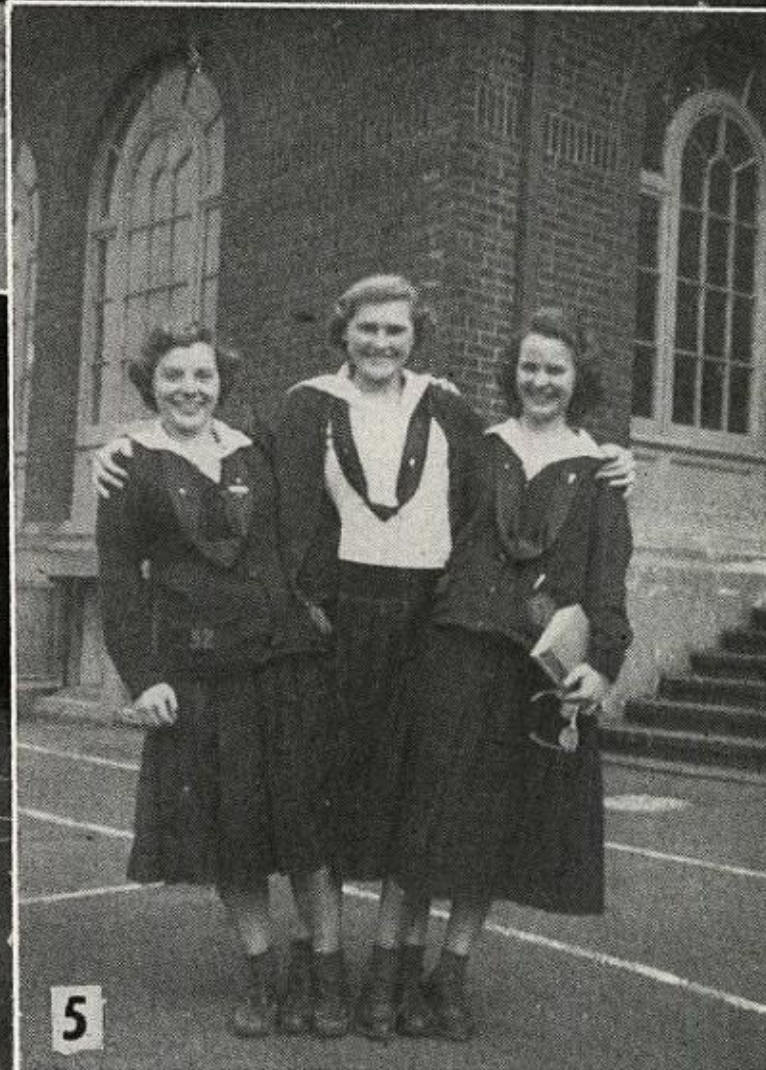

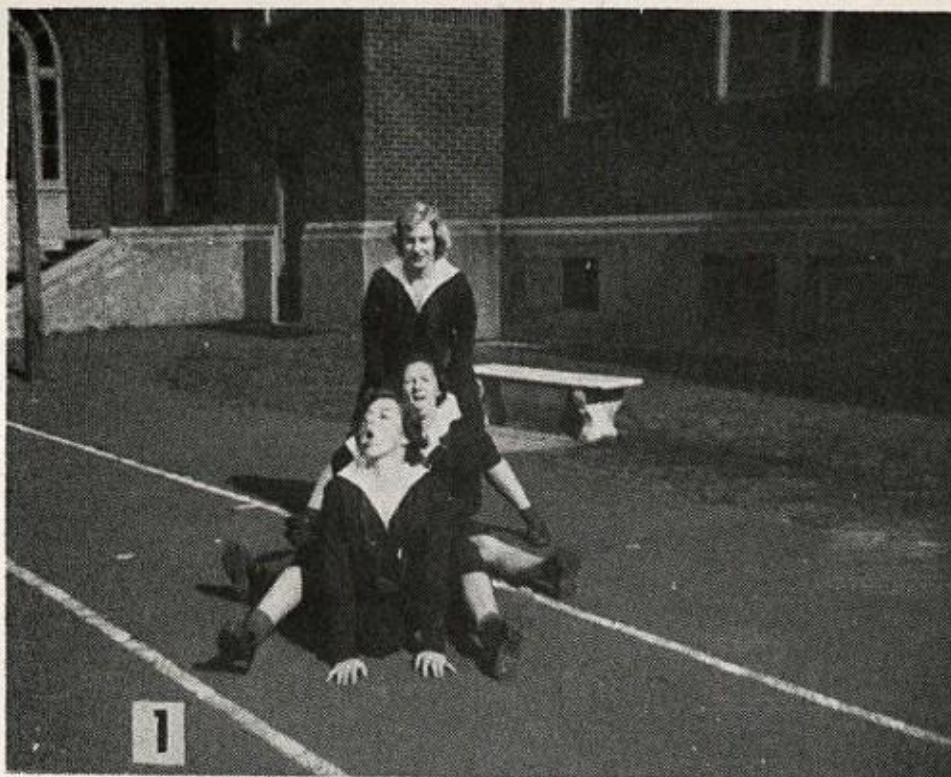

PATRICIA WRIGHT

Take wit and vivacity, add powers of leadership, a dash of naturalness, and you have the recipe for one of our most active and popular Seniors—"Pat." As President of the Student Government, she has combined her ability with her sense of humor to create a warm friendliness toward all.

Juniors Portray Next Year's Models

Rolling off to a good start for '51 the Juniors gave their skating party honoring the Freshmen. Seniors and Sophomores also were present.

From the first edition of the Junior Jinks everyone saw this year's paper would be something to look forward to. An election brought forth such promising journalistic by-liners as Mary Ashley and Peggy Cahill, co-editors; Mary Loe, sports editor; Ginny Marion, humor editor; and Marilyn Landon, art editor.

"We won!" were the happy shouts of the Juniors the night of the Father-Daughter Banquet when they scooped away the basketball cup.

To have a wonderful time, was the wish of the Juniors as they gave their annual prom, at the Sunset Club. Beautiful girls and their handsome escorts enjoyed a royal evening.

As Seniors next year they are certain to be leaders and examples to the rest of the school.

Starry-Eyed Sophomores

Turning back the pages from the start of the fall quarter until the last of May, we find the Sophomores have been very active in school affairs.

To the great delight of fellow schoolmates, they sponsored a ski movie. Dreamy eyes showed that every girl saw herself on a pair of skis.

Thinking up a very novel idea for the charity bazaar, they installed a photographer's booth so that everyone had more than just memories to remind her of a pleasant afternoon.

The Seniors feel very special about the Sophomores, their sister class, and are expecting great achievements in the next two years.

Doors Open to Receive Freshmen

Stepping right into school activities with cooperation and new ideas, came the Freshmen. Pigtailed and clothed inside out for the mock initiation of Lambda Theta Upsilon, only smiles and good-natured laughter shone through.

Skilled in sports old and new to them, they contributed good sportsmanship, on and off the athletic field.

Under the fine guidance of Mrs. Neil, their adviser, the White Elephant sale at the Charity Bazaar was a great success.

This year they leave behind them many happy memories and take with them a realization of the things yet to come.

GLEE CLUB

"And they sang like angels," might well be the epithet of the Glee Club. Under the direction of Mrs. Almada Jones, this has been an exceptionally busy year. Greatly enjoyed here at school, they have also performed before numerous other audiences. A list of their appearances include: the KOMO radio program, Voices of the Northwest, Brides of All Nations pageant, King County Medical Society Auxiliary, YWCA Membership Tea, and the State Convention of Federation of Music Clubs.

Theatrical Supplies Are Tops

The class of '51 started off its Senior year with the production of "Come Over to Our House," a three-act comedy by Marrijane and Joseph Hanes, on November 17. With the excellent assistance of Miss Mary Granger, our director and sponsor, the play was a tremendous hit. The marvelous cast included Pat Wright as snobby Lindy Eldridge, dramatic Marion Eldridge by Debby Davidson, serious Jay Eldridge by Caroline Howe, scatterbrained Evie Canon by Toni Dickinson, Jeanne Smiley as the understanding mother, and Gail Thompson as the hilarious Sacha Sevinsky, plus all the other outstanding characters.

Without the able production staff the play would never have been such a great success. For this invaluable work we acclaim Shirley Overby as the Stage Manager, Virginia Bell as Business Manager, Jerrie Heathcote as Sound Effects, and Sally Ingraham and Sally Scripps managing Stage and Hand Properties respectively.

Class Prophecy

MRS. BOLSTER
ST. NICHOLAS SCHOOL
SEATTLE 2, WASHINGTON

We thought we would drop you a short line and give you the latest news.

It's really wonderful being here in Tahiti. Since the mysterious death of Gail Thompson's fourth husband, who just happened quite by chance to be a millionaire, she financed the trip for the remaining members of the class to Tahiti.

We miss Virginia Bell terribly but we're very glad to hear that she is now the Chemistry teacher; please say "hello" to her for us.

Rita just sits by herself under a lonely palm trying to figure out how we got the money for the Cantoria. She keeps adding and adding but she gets the wrong number.

Sid and Pat joined the Navy Submarine Corps only to find John Wayne was in Hollywood and now they can't get out, but they dropped by in their submarine.

Sally and Georgie left their glasses at home, got frustrated and tried to dance with a coconut tree.

Joan Lydgate and Joanne Ives finally made the Royal Hawaiians, Joan doing her specialty act as Hilo Hatti.

Debbie was one of the first ones here. We didn't need to ask what she is doing now as she has on a dress made of Littler labels.

Glen, who arrived in the Presidential yacht, finally defeated Harry Truman. She couldn't get the idea of President out of her head.

Margaret and Bobby are sitting on the beach going over the script for their silent movie.

Class of '51
Tahiti Hotel, Tahiti
June 5, 1991

Don't tell anybody, Mrs. Bolster, but we think Patti is a little queer; all day she keeps saying "Come on you guys, come on, come on, let's play bridge." We don't know what to do about it.

Caroline and Toni arrived a little late because Toni insisted on driving and they ran out of gas.

We miss Blanche. On her birthday we had a cake for her but she finally had her nervous breakdown and couldn't come. Someone ate the icing anyway, so it didn't go to waste.

Joey and Sally opened a girls' camp on Lake Wenatchee near the forestry cabin, because Sally got so tired of peeling those potatoes.

Did you hear about the tragic death of Carol and Betsy? The local yokels' report was that it was the weight of Carol's 75 pound salmon plus Betsy's weight that sank the boat.

It's too bad Jeanne can't enjoy this wonderful holiday as she is suffering from migraine headache. However, we are very lucky to have Dr. Annabell Fix It with us and she is doing the best she can for her.

We hardly had a chance to speak to Shirley and Jerrie as they were playing a roaring game of tennis.

We hope every one is well at school; we certainly will be thinking of you as we loll in this beautiful sunshine.

Yours truly, as long as we last,

The remaining members of the Class of '51

Class Will

We, the class of '51, being of unsound mind and body, declare this to be our last will and testament until we can think of a better one. We do solemnly bequeath the following:

Margaret Backschies's sweetness to Martha Washington for bigger and better candies.

Virginia Bell leaves her laugh to Gayle Osterman.

Glen Borgendale's ability in chemistry to Albert Einstein to perfect his fifth dimensional theory.

Annabell Brown's No-Doz pills to the cramming Seniors of '52.

Patti Culliton's sense of humor to all traffic cops.

Debbie Davidson's bottle of Tintair to Millie Childers.

Toni Dickinson's pet goldfish to Miss Thompson to be used when we run out of meat loaf.

Sid Edmund's snap, crackle, and pop to Mr. Rice Krispy.

Rita Giese, now that she sees her way clear to graduation, leaves her glasses to Sainty Kerry.

Jerrie Heathcote's money that she collected from the Seniors to help pay the national debt.

Caroline Howe's capacity to work to President Truman.

Sally Ingraham's long arms to Merna Eastman for use at Senior tables.

Joanne Ives's smiling face to John L. Lewis.

Bobby Johnson's fingernails to the false fingernail industry.

Carol Jones's ability to drive without looking to the Washington State Patrol.

Joan Lydgate's lovely voice to Margaret Truman.

Johanna Minard's ability in speech to Louella Parsons.

Shirley Overby's face to Al Capp for a new character.

Blanche Patterson's ability to eat frosting to Van de Kamps.

Sally Scripps leaves to a German leopard all of her spots.

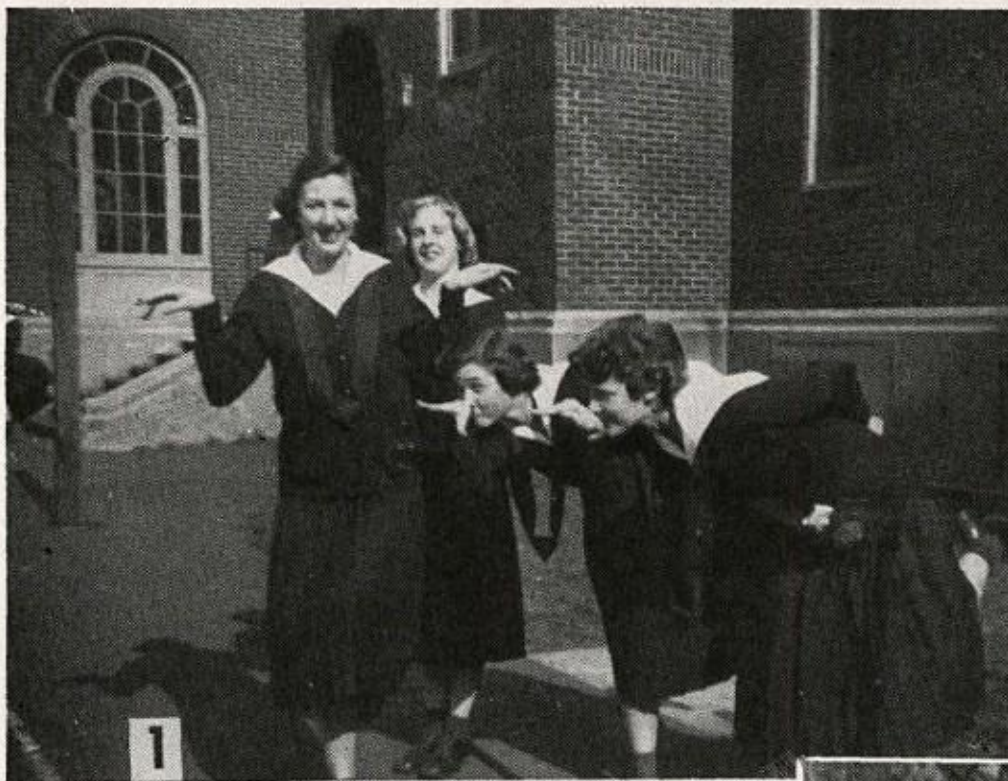

Jeanne Smiley leaves her brain to the University of Washington Medical School; maybe they can find out what happened.

Georgie Stewart leaves her desk to Sara Ann MacRae.

Betsy Stone leaves her gold fillings to Miss Evans to help settle the silver question.

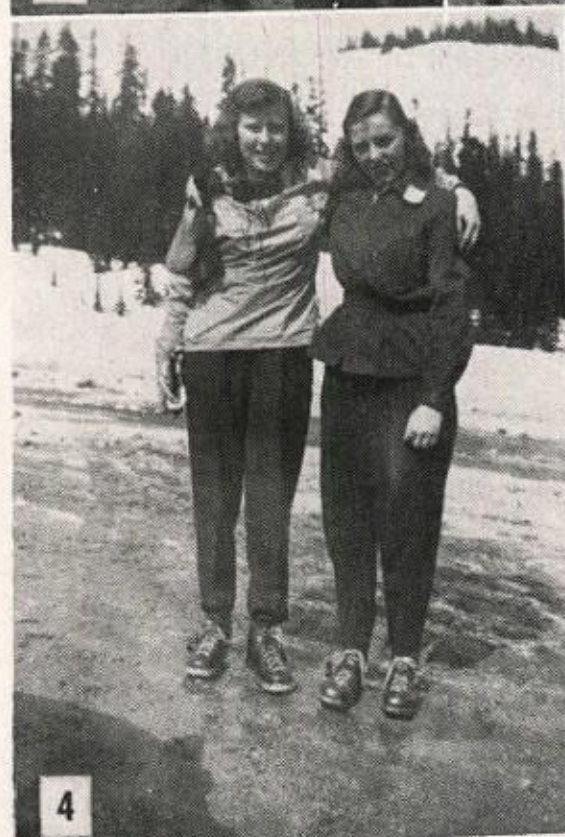

Gail Thompson leaves.

Pat Wright leaves her sticky fingers to the fly paper industry.
